RUESGEN PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE OF MURDER

BOUND OVER TO CIRCUIT COURT

To Appear Before Judge Higbee Upon Latter's Return from Eau Claire

JOHN PALIWODA NOT GUILTY

Claims He Did Not Know that Ruesgen was in His Woodshed at the Time

Matt Ruesgen, who was arrested Saturday night in a woodshed at the home of John Paliwoda, 520 Loomis street, was arraigned before Judge Brindley this morning charged with wilfully, feloniously and with malice aforethought killing and murdering John H. Studier, superintendent of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, in a cold-blooded manner pleaded guilty He had nothing to say to the court and was bound over to the circuit court without bail. Judge Higbee is at present in Eau Claire where he is holding court for Judge Wickham and upon his return the prisoner will appear before the court to receive his sentence.

Ruesgen had no attorney and none of his relatives was in the court room when he was arraigned. After he was bound over Sheriff Duncan placed handcuffs on him and the prisoner was taken to the county jail.

Paliwoda Arraigned

Shortly afterward John Paliwoda was arraigned before Judge Brindley charged with assisting Ruesgen to hide and make his escape to which he pleaded not guilty. He informed the court that he did not know that Ruesgen was in his woodshed. He said he returned from his work in the evening and as is customary he locked the woodshed door for the night. He said he did not talk to Ruesgen and that he did not see him that evening.

Chief Webber says, however, that Ruesgen told him that he went to Paliwoda's home and told him what he had done. Paliwoda did not want to conceal him in the house, thinking the police may search the house, and thereupon advised him to go into the woodshed.

Paliwoda waived examination and was bound over for trial in the circuit court under $1,000 bail. In addition to the charge of assisting Ruesgen to escape, Paliwoda was charged with a second offense, having been sentenced on June 22, 1909 to the county jail for stealing a quantity of brass.

Post-Mortem Held

Sunday a post mortem examination was held over the body of Studier, the murdered man, by Drs. J. E. Egan and D. S. McArthur, at the morgue of Tillman Bros. The examination proved that four shots had been fired, one bullet entering the right side about an inch above the nipple, another on the right side below the ribs, another on the left side of the abdomen, which passed through the body and the fourth entered the right hip.

Inquest is Ordered

Sunday morning Coroner L. Kieeber ordered an inquest held and the following jury was drawn: C .C. Hamilton, W. C. Winter, Chris Haraldsrud, John Dammon, H. W. Babb and James Drake. The jury viewed the remains after which adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in Coroner Kleeber's office.

Body is Sent Home

The body of the murdered man was taken to his home in Amsterdam, N. Y., Sunday night, leaving here over the Milwaukee road at 11 o'clock. Between the hous of 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening, the remains were viewed at the morgue by hundreds of friends and employes of the Pearl Button Works. The casket was covered with floral tributes, many of which came from friends of the dead superintendent and his fellow workers. The body was accompanied to Amsterdam by a fellow workman, who also came from that place.

Had Planned to Leave City

Chief Webber learned this morning that Saturday morning Ruesgen went to his home on the North side and got all of his money, intending to leave the city after killing Studier. When arrested he had $9.15 in his pocket, having spent some of the money in Third street saloons while waiting for the superintendent.

Story of the Crime

The shooting of John H. Studier, superintendent of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, was the most cold-blooded murder in La Crosse since the killing of Patrolman Perry Gates by three highwaymen, who made their escape and who were never captured.

The murder occurred shortly before 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon

ANOTHER SHOOTING ON PACKET SIDNEY

Colored Roustabout Fires a Shot at Fireman, but Bullet Fails to Take Effect

Another shooting affair took place this morning about 7 o'clock on the Diamond Jo packet, Sidney, which arrived on her first trip of the season up river.

Sam Hill, a colored routabout, was seen to be going through the bunk of the fireman of the boat, who is also a colored man, and as the altter went toward him and accused him of robbing his bunk, Hill pulled a revolver and fired a shot. The fireman, whose name could not be learned, had hold of Hill's hand and therefore saved himself from being shot, the bullet striking the ceiling. Immediately afterward Hill ran off of the boat and started up the street. He went to the barn in the rear of Peter Liesenfeld, on Vine between Second and Third street, where he attempted to hide in the hayloft. A small dog barked and frightened the negro, who ran down stairs and jumped through the window and then ran north on Third street.

The police were notified and started after the negro, Patrolman Alois Yehle capturing him in the Burlington yards on the north side. Hill will be held here until the packet returns from St. Paul.

SAYS BROWNE IS BRIBERS' CHIEF

CHICAGO, June 13.—With the court room crowded the actual trial of Lee O'Neil Browns, charged with bribery in the election of Wm. Lorimer for United States Senator began today in Judge McSurley's court.

State's Attorney Wayman produced a letter addressed to Representative White and signed by Browne which said in substance: "Have you got your transportation yet? If not, wire to headquarters of the Pullman company for your berth and to the general counsels of the Wabash and Illinois Central and the president of the Chicago and Alton railroads."

Attorney Forrest for the defense asked to see the letter and showed it to Browne, but no comments were made.

After the state's attorney had finished, the defense declined to make any statement and Representative Charles White was sworn as the first witness.

White testified that he had asked Browne when he received payment: "How much will I get from other sources?" and that Browne replied: "As much more out of the 'jack pot.'"

The defense argued that the state could not go into any other transactions save the acts of bribery for which Browne was actually indicted.

When the court recessed, the judge had not yet ruled on this point.

The White Interview

White's story of his meeting with Browne in his room at the St. Nicholas Hotel was as follows:

"He came to my room about 11 o'clock that night. He made a little remark about three of us being in a room there. He asked me if I could vote for a republican. I told him I could vote for anyone. He asked me if I could vote for Lorimer. I told him I could. He said that it was strictly secret and that I should keep it under my hat. He took out a book and put my name in it.

"He said: 'I suppose I can depend on you?' I said: 'I don't go back on my word.' He said: 'All right. I will check off your name.' He said, 'keep quiet, because I am in the ——suspicious of the little place down there, called Joliet.'"

"Did you meet anyone else?" inquired the prosecutor.

"Yes, I met Beckemeyer. We talked about the election of United States senators. Browne came along and told us to go to bed," the witness said.

He returned shohtly afterward and met his death from a pistol shot wound. He had brought a revolver with him.

OKLAHOMANS WAR OVER NEW CAPITAL

Oklahoma City Wins in the Vote, but Guthrie Citizens Invoke an Injunction

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 13.—Following the issuance of a statement by Governor Haskell, declaring the state capital would be located at Oklahoma City from now on, an application for a temporary injunction restraining the state officials from removing any books or records to Oklahoma City or transacting official business there, was filed today at Guthrie, with United States District Judge Cotteral of the western Oklahoma district. This is the second injunction asked for, the first having been granted in a county court. Judge Cotteral has the application under consideration.

The cities of Guthrie and Oklahoma City today promise to go to the heldmat in one of the most novel contests held Saturday when Oklahoma City was chosen as the site for the permanent state capital by a majority vote of 35,000.

The capture of the state seal from Guthrie was accomplished last night after a wild automobile ride through the darkness by W. B.. Anthony, private secretary to Gov. Haskell. Leaving Oklahoma City at 1 o'clock, the 70 mile run to Guthrie was made in an hour. As the machine entered the old capital the muffler was applied and the governor's representative stole quietly into the city. An hour later the seal was with the officials in Oklahoma City.

Late Saturday night Miss Jane Haskell, daughter of the governor, cheered for Oklahoma City and was stoned and hooted from the streets of Guthrie. She is now in Oklahoma City with her parents.

C. A. HOM FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

Discovered About 9 O'clock This Morning by Roomer; Death was Due to Heart Failure

Charles A. Hom, an aged employe of the Can company, was found dead in his bed at his room at 223 South Third street, at about 9:10 o'clock this morning by another roomer at the house. Coroner Kleeber and the police were notified and the body was taken to the undertaking establishments of Miller Brothers, where the coroner after examining the body, decided not to hold an inquest, stating that death was probably due to heart failure or a paralytic stroke. There was nothing to indicate foul play.

Deceased was 60 years old and is survived by four brothers and two sisters. E. L. Hom of Onalaska was notified and came at once to the city to take charge of the remains. No funeral arrangements have been made.

START SUITS ON STOCKYARD CO.

CHICAGO, June 13.—United States District Attorney Sims today filed in the United States court a petition charging the Union Stock Yards and Transit Company and allied corporations with failing to comply with the requirements of the interstate commerce act and asking an injunction restraining the operations of the defendants until they comply with the federal laws.

The other defendants are the Chicago Junction Railway Company, the Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards Company and Louis Pfaelzer and Sons, packers.

The government charges that the Union Stock Yards Company and the railway companies named are engaged in interstate commerce but have failed to file rates as specified by law and that the stock yards company had agreed to pay Louis Pfaelzer and Sons a rebate. The important point to be settled by the suit is the question whether or not concerns like the Chicago Union Stock Yards Company, which operate railroads wholly within the state but in connection with lines doing an interstate business are subject to regulation by the interstate commerce commission. Besides Sims the bill is signed by Attorney General Wickersham, W. S. Kenyon, assistant attorney general, and W. E. Lamb, speecial attorney for the interstate commerce commission.

SHIPPERS WANT HEARING

WASHINGTON, D. C., une 13.—A delegation representing mid-western shippers appeared before the interstate commerce commission today and requested that when the commission takes under consideration the freight rate increases proposed by the railroads, the shippers be given a hearing. This permission was granted.

THIRTY DIE IN MONTREAL CATASTROPHE

Huge Water Tank Falls Through Herald Building, and Employes Meet Death

MORE THAN FIFTY INJURED

Ruins Take Fire and the Corpses of Victims Are Burned in Ruins of Big Building

MONTREAL, June 13.—One of the worst catastrophes in the history of Montreal occurred today at the building of the Montreal Herald at St. James street when some thirty men, women and children lost their lives, fifty more were injured more or less seriously and the plant and premises were destroyed. A huge water tank on the roof collapsed and fell through four floors carrying death and destruction in its path. Several employes went with it from the top to the bottom floors where it upset the machinery and, breaking electric wires, started a blaze which in a few minutes swept through from the first floor to the roof.

Victims are Caught

None of the victims had any chance to escape. Without the slightest warning the big tank broke from its supports, crashed through the roof like an eggshell and through the bindery, job department, artist's room, down to the main floor.

O the top floor which was devoted to the bindery business there were 68 employes.

On the third floor where the job printing department was situated, there were 138 persons. In the editorial department, which occupied the front section of the second floor, there were twenty men and two women.

NO SOLUTION TO THE COMO MYSTERY

COMO, June 13.—Convinced that there can be little progress made in unravelling the mystery of the murder of Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton until the part alleged to have been played in the crime by Porter Charlton, the missing husband, is determined, the police today began a second dragging of Lake Como and started also to dig up the ground around the villa Legnazzi, near Moltrasio, which the Charltons occupied. The lake is being dragged in the belief that if Charlton, too, was murdered.

Half the police believe Constantine Ispolatoff, the Russian suspect, alone holds the key to the murder.

Ispolatoff is proving one of the craftiest prisoners ever questioned by the police of Italy. The best detective talent in Milan and Rome have tried to break down his story that the last he saw of the Charltons was on Saturday, June 4th, at least a day before the murder was committed but have failed entirely.

The statement of M. Bassi, a druggist of Cernobbio, that he lent a pair of brass knuckles to Ispolatoff was expected to bring startling developments, but the prisoner insisted that Bassi was mistaken.

The police say it is possible that the wounds in Mrs. Charlton's head have been produced by these "knuckles."

ROOSEVELT TALKS TO THE INSURGENTS

ON BOARD THE KAISERIN AUGUSTA VICTORIA—Via wireless, London, June 13.—Col. Roosevelt is the idol of the steerage passengers. His action in attending the Catholic services held on board yesterday and addressing the future citizens of the United States was followed by an unprecedented demonstration when the emigrants crowded about him and tried to kiss his hand. In two brief "sermons" Roosevelt welcomed the emigrants to America and exhorted them to be mindful of the duty of citizenship in their new homes and to protect their women folk.

The weather has been perfect so far.

The choice cuts will remain the same.

MISHAPS STOP GREAT FLIGHT HALF FINISHED

ST. LOUIS SURGEON SHOT IN OFFICE

Famous Physician Victim of Assailant who Then Escapes; Deliveryman Arrested

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 13.—Dr. John M. Grant, one of the most widely known surgeons in the country, was shot and fatally wounded in his home shortly before noon today by an unidentified man who made his escape. The physician's assailant drove to the Grant home in an open buggy, entered the physician's office, and fired two shots, both taking effect.

One of the bullets struck Dr. Grant in the head, the other entering his body under the right arm. He was rushed to a hospital where five of the most noted surgeons in St. Louis were called and an operation performed in hopes of saving his life.

An hour after the shooting A. W. Rayne, a driver of a delivery wagon for Nugent's Department store, was arrested at a livery stable, suspected of having been Dr. Grant's assailant.

The delivery wagon that stopped in front of the Grant home before the shooting bore the name of the Nugent store and shortly afterward Rayne arrived at the barn. Dr. Grant has been the physician of the Rayne family for several years.

CHEER PINCHOT; CHEER GARFIELD

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 13.—Enthusiastic applause awoke the echoes at the Roosevelt dinner of the Roosevelt club Saturday night when Gifford Pinchot, deposed forester, and James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, poured hot shot into the ranks of the "regular" organization of the republican party. Insurgency dominated the meeting; the name of Theodore Roosevelt was wildly cheered, while the name of William Howard Taft was not mentioned.

Pinchot surprised his hearers by showing himself as well versed on the tariff as upon forestry, and he went into that subject in a way that delighted his hearers, showing the colossal grab in the wool schedule, the not even solicited additional "concessions" in cotton, the favors handed the sugar trust at a time when it stands convicted of the outright theft of millions from the government.

Beginning with the paragraph, "The conservation issue is a moral issue, and the heart of it is this: For whose benefit shall our national resources be conserved—for the benefit of us all or for the use and profit of the few?" Pinchot brought rounds of applause with such assertions as the following:

"When political parties come to be badly led, when their leaders lose touch with the people, it is time to change the leaders."

"The alliance between business and politics is the most dangerous thing in our political life. It is the snake we must kill."

"It is the belief of the people that as a whole the Senate and House no longer represent the people, but the special interests."

"The people no longer are going to stand for the stealing of coal, the stealing of timber or the stealing of land," was one of the bombs exploded by Mr. Garfield, whose reception by the guests was scarcely less of a unanimous and noisy vindication than that given Mr. Pinchot.

ARTHUR J. WALKER DEAD AT HOSITAL

Arthur J. Walker, for many years bookkeeper for the C. L. Colman Lumber Company, died Sunday morning at the Lutheran hospital, where he submitted to an operation about a month ago for carcinoma of the stomach. After the operation it was thought that he was doing nicely but about a week ago there was a sudden change for the worse and since that time his condition was considered grave.

Decedent was born in La Crosse, August 22, 1863 and he had lived in this city all of his life. He was well known and had a large number of friends. Surviving are one brother and three sisters. They are Frank S. Walker of this city; Mrs. W. R. Chapman of St. Louis, Mo., and Minnie and Edna Walker of this city.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of his brother, F. S. Walker, 317 South Eighth street, and interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

LONDON, June 13.—The government today made its answer to Col. Roosevelt's Guild Hall speech. Sir Edward Grey said there was nothing in Roosevelt's speech to justify criticism of Sir Eldon Gorst, Egyptian agent.

DIRTY PLUG IS CAUSE OF STOP

Hamilton's Propeller breaks in Second Start and the Finish Is Delayed One Day

FIRST LEG IS SPECTACULAR

Swoops Into Philadelphia Ahead of Train and Is Nearly Home when He Descends

SOUTH AMBOY, N. J., June 13.—A series of mishaps prevented Chas. K. Hamilton from completing his round trip from New York to Philadelphia. After dropping into the meadows near here shortly after 1 o'clock because of a dirty spark plug, he made quick repairs and had the machine hauled to a hard piece of ground for a second start. While testing the engine his propeller, borrowed from Curtiss this morning after his own had been broken by colliding with tree, snapped off and put an end to his plan to finish the trip tonight. Hamilton was discouraged but game and declared that he would complete the trip at any cost. He at once wired to New York for another propeller and when it arrives will finish the flight. He says, however, that this would not be before tomorrow and possibly not until Wednesday.

Weather is Best

The start of the flight was made under the most propitious weather conditions possible. Not a breath of air was stirring and the sun was hidden under the overhanging clouds which, however, did not seem to presage rain.

Hamilton and Glenn H. Curtiss went over the biplane, testing every wire and bolt.

The engine was thoroughly oiled and allowed to runu for several minutes to test its working capacity.

Hamilton ascended about 300 feet and dashed out toward the bay, passing over the sea wall and turned south, returning over the Buttermilk channel and back over the heads of the spectators, climbing higher all the time. At 7:38 he headed over the sea wall again, waving his hand to those gathered below on the island. The trip to Philadelphia was begun. From hundreds of craft in the river there boomed a salute of sirens. A big tramp freighter, heading up the bay, seemed to go out of its course as the helmsman dropped his steering wheel to gaze at the man-bird. High over the big vessel he sped. When he reached a line with the Statue of Liberty, Hamilton headed further to the southeast and over the Kill Von Kull, which separates Staten Island from the Jersey shore. Curtiss estimated his speed at 38 miles an hour. Down the Kill Von Kull, the machine fled, gliding smoothly.

Train is Pilot

At Elizabeth, Hamilton turned inland and passed over the town in the direction of South Elizabeth. Near the latter town, the special train of the New York Times and Philadel-

109 JOINED IN SWIMMING TEST

Great Work Done in Week by Expert Corsan at the La Crosse Y. M. C. A.

BUTTONS GIVEN TO WINNERS

Secretary will Hold Trials and Award Prizes to All who Swim the Tank

Geo. Corsan, the international swimming instructor who was at the Y. M. C. A. last week, gave the second of his swimming exhibitions in the Y. tank on Saturday night. As at the previous exhibition, he told of his method of instruction, how to resuscitate a drowning person, and how to tow them ashore.

Before beginning, Prof. Corsan had all those boys who had learned to swim during the week go the length of the tank, using the stroke which he teaches. Forty-nine were able to do this, and they showed that they had been well instructed, as many could have gone even farther if necessary. In addition to this Sydney Burroughs, one of the forty-nine, gave an exhibition of diving, performing feats which would have done credit to an older person, and being complimented by Prof. Corsan for his ability.

Prof. Corsan's exhibition was an interesting one, he demonstrating the superiority of the crawl, which he teaches over the breast stroke, saying that it is a better stroke for a growing boy, as it employes the shoulder muscles, thereby preventing round shoulders, as it is a much freer movement. It also develops the lungs, as in order to use the crawl, one must breathe deeply. The instructor also demonstrated other strokes, among them being the overhand, side, and racing. Earl Olson again assisted the professor in the methods of resuscitation and towing a drowned person ashore.

Mr. Corsan also demonstrated his method of breathing, which is to breathe in through the mouth while above the water and then exhale through the nose while under so that one is enabled to get breath as soon as he emerges. This method of breathing is used by all swimming experts.

On account of the fact that it was Saturday when the trials were held for swimming the length of the pool to receive the small button which is given to all accomplishing the feat, Mr. Corsan authorized Secretary A. C. Gran to hold trials some time this week and to award buttons to all who can swim the distance. It is expected that this will give a chance to many more to get the prize.

The instruction was very successful, five hundred and thirty-five entering the classes, and most of them progressing well. A complete summary of the work done during the week follows:

Unable to start, 18; able to start, 13; swimming dog fashion, 2; swimming 7 feet, 1; swimming 10 feet, 9; swimming 15 feet, 9; swimming 20 feet, 3; swimming 25 feet, 4; swimming 30 feet, 2; swimming full length of pool, 45 feet, 49; total who took test, 109.

Those who receive buttons for swimming the length of the tank:

Clifford Johnson, Walter Baum, Geo. Baum, Clifford Turner, Wilfred Figgie, Herbert Hall, Walter Ahlstrom, Victor Casperson, Lester Bangsberg, Harold Hallnagel, Gunnar Gunderson, Ed Evans, John Erickson, Samuel Anderson, Will Renner, Philip Bloom, Joseph Montish, Louis Zielmski, John Verse, Wm. PROGRESSIVES ARE CONFIDENT

Former Governor Devine of North Dakota Looks for Success at the Primaries

GRAND FORKS, N. D., June 13.—Confident the majority of the candidates on the progressive republican ticket are certain of nomination at the primaries June 29, and believing that, while there is some doubt in the case of some of the candidates, there will be a general victory for the faction he heads as chairman of the campaign committee, former Governor J. M. Devine is in the city to look after his duties.

"Politics is not being talked of a great deal in North Dakota this year," said Mr Devine. "I have been in the political game a great many years, however, and believe I am capable of sizing up the situation fairly well. Everywhere I have been I have given closest attention to conditions existing, and I believe, with the exception of a few districts scattered here and there, the insurgent movement has grown in the last two years in a surprising degree. The people have been thinking, and the result is a more thorough understanding of what the insurgents stand for."

PEKIN, June 13.—England and America have secured a decided advantage over Germany in the first struggle for commercial prestige in China by the throne approval of the recommendation of the board of education that English shall hereafter be the official language in all provincial, scientific and technical high schools.

S.S.S. OLDEST & BEST BLOOD PURIFIER

Time is the supreme test of all things, and the very best recommendation of S. S. S. is that it has stood a long test and is now oftener used, and has the confidence of a greater number of people than any other blood medicine.

The blood is the vital force of life; the health-preserving element and motive power of the system. Every organ, nerve, muscle, tissue and sinew of the body is dependent directly on the blood for nourishment and strength. As it circulates through the system, pure and rich, it furnishes to these different members the healthful properties needed to sustain and enable them to perform their various duties. So long as the blood remains free from infection we are apt to be healthy, but any impurity, humor or poison in the circulation affects some portion of the general health.

Bad blood may come from various causes, such as sluggish condition of the system, imperfect bowel and kidney action, indigestion, etc., or the trouble may be inherited, but whatever the source the blood must be purified before the body can be healthy. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes, and the various skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish condition as the result of some humor, or the presence of an irritating, fiery acid. Rheumatism comes from an excess of uric acid in the circulation, while Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, and Contagious Blood Poison, are all deep-seated blood disorders.

BUILDS UP THE HEALTH.

I have used S. S. S. quite extensively, and know it to be the best of blood purifiers. It is vegetable, as you claim, and does not injure the system in the least, but on the contrary builds up the general health while ridding the blood of all poisons and impurities. I feel better in every way since taking your medicine, and am firm in the opinion that it is all you claim for it in the cure of blood troubles.

G. K. Hess.

716 Willow St., Lebenon, Penn.

S. S. S. is a natural blood purifier and tonic. If is made entirely of the juices and extracts of roots, herbs and barks of recognized curative ability, and being free from all harmful minerals is an absolutely safe medicine for young or old. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and removes every trace of impurity, humor or poison. It freshens and enriches the blood and cures promptly and permanently Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores, and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other blood disorders. S. S. S. is the most reliable medicine for those whose blood has become weak and who are suffering from Anæmia, Malaria or other debilitating trouble. Book on the blood free. ASSASSIN FAILS TO WIN HIS LIFE

CAIRO, Egypt, June 13.—The court of cassation has thrown out the appeal of T. Ibraham Wardani, the Egyptian nationalist, from the death sentence recently imposed upon him for the murder of Premier Boutros Pasha.

It was this murder that gave Col. Roosevelt the text for his condemnation of the nationalist movement in his Cairo speech and which also furnished the chief count in the colonel's indictment of England's rule in Egypt in his famous Guild Hall speech in London.

NAYLOR

The notable political event in this state during the past week was not the Milwaukee "convention;" that sordid affair of monopoly politics, inspired by selfishness, is of petty significance, and perhaps we confer upon it its first usefulness when we dignify it by comparison with the really big thing in the week's politics—the withdrawal of William B. Naylor, of Tomah, from the senatorial race in the 31st district.

We quote from Mr. Naylor's letter of withdrawal:

"The history of the progressive movement in this state shows that the chief cause of its temporary and uncalled for defeats, is the fact that we are prone to present a divided front, i. e., too many candidates for the same office. Too many seem to badly confuse their patriotic or political zeal with a lust for office, and a personal ambition for leadership. We must not be forgetful of the fact that every army needs 'privates' more than officers, and that 'there is glory enough for us all.'

"A careful survey of the senatorial situation in this district, with three of us as progressive candidates instead of one, convinces me that this same danger is impending here and can only be averted by the withdrawal of two. As the best proof of my sincerity (which some have for political reasons claimed to doubt), I now propose to be the first to withdraw as such candidate, and take my place in the ranks. This will demonstrate to any unprejudiced mind that I am interested in the coming campaign of Senator La Follette, at least to that degree that I am willing to place his election as the first and greatest object, to attain which it is a pleasant duty to sink my personal ambitions for office."

This withdrawal was made notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Naylor was first of the La Follette men in the race. It was made in a sacrificial mood, for the cause he has espoused. When Senator Tom Morris became the talk of the state by withdrawing from the gubernatorial race at a time when it was conceded that his support was stronger than that of any other single progressive, an example was set which shamed some men (of the sort that can be shamed) and fired others with enthusiasm. Now comes Mr. Naylor, with a similar sacrifice, for like Morris, Naylor for the common good quit a battle he would have loved to fight.

We commend the action of these men to progressives in other counties in the state. The one hope of the stalwarts is to divide the progressives against themselves. La Crosse and Tomah have set an example that, if followed throughout the state, means victory for good government.

One more word about Mr. Naylor: He was not on the La Follette band wagon in the first race. Since then he has avowed himself a convert. But when he made known his senatorial aspirations, a warning was whispered about. Some men said Naylor was fooling the people, that he was still a stalwart at heart. Others who knew him defended him warmly. There was diversity of opinion, and consequent confusion.

This was an embarrassing situation. Men wanted to be fair, but they did not want to be fooled. The Tribune experienced a feeling of doubt. It heard none but good words about Naylor, the man; but Naylor, the politician, was painted successively black and white from day to day, and no basis for conclusion as to the real facts could be found.

In the withdrawal of Mr. Naylor is settled, once for all, every doubt as to his allegiance to the progressive movement in government. By that act he established, for all time, the fact that no man in this state will go further for the La Follette cause than William B. Naylor. The proof is conclusive, for NAYLOR WITHDREW FOR THE VERY REASON THAT, HAD HE BEEN SECRETLY A STALWART SYMPATHIZER, WOULD HAVE IMPELLED HIM IRRESISTABLY TO REMAIN IN THE RACE. If, by his withdrawal, he could make possible the election of any man (no matter whether personal friend, or foe) who would stand up to the rack for La Follette, he would do it, nor count the cost to himself. In the future it will be useless for any man to raise the question of Mr. Naylor's patriotic allegiance to a cause he recognizes as greater than any man's personal ambitions—that is why we have faith that when the progressives of his district finally settle upon the man back of whom they are prepared to exert their unified effort, there will be in the front rank, fighting a clean, persistent fight, a gentleman by the name of "NAYLOR!"

A young man by the name of Wyley, son of a wealthy eastern family, attempts to excuse burglary by saying his downfall was the result of being jilted by a girl. This is a coward's excuse, and one readily imagines that, instead, the girl jilted him because he was the sort of fellow to whom the toboggan slide to crime was alluring.

For stealing millions of dollars the sugar trust is to be "punished" by the imprisonment of its presiding officer for two whole years. Meantime its "enterprise" has been rewarded by a more "satisfactory" tariff and by sugar land concessions amounting to more millions.

Gifford Pinchot disclosed to his St. Paul auditors the fact that he knows about as much about the tariff as he does about trees, and almost within megaphone distance of the scene of Taft's Winona speech he flayed the Aldrich tariff. This, too, after a visit with Roosevelt.

President Taft has refused an audience to a congressman because that congressman had introduced in the house a resolution distasteful to the executive. Where has gone the poise and the breadth that once dignified the White house?

In Marinette a lawyer who fights Stephenson and convicts grafters in the senator's retinue is considered unfit to practice law. However, we doubt if the fighting Lawyer Schwittay will be ousted without at least piling up an interesting court record.

Word comes from St. Paul that Minnesota progressive republicans have sworn allegiance to La Follette and will help him in his fight. Count on us doing some progressive work over in "Jim" Tawney's district.

The courts have declared that the interstate commerce commission may regulate the prices of Pullman berths. Every once in a while we run across something "that's a very good sign."

When Roosevelt was leaving he said that "Wall street expected every lion to do his duty." Now that he is returning we expect every bull and bear to hunt the cyclone cellar.

SPOTLIGHTS

PELHAM'S MYSTERIOUS POWER

The feature of all vaudeville performances will be seen in the city all this week commencing with this afternoon's matinee. Dr. E. Pelham, the English hypnotist has been engaged by the Majestic theater at the enormous salary of $450 per week. The prices at the theater will however remain the same, there being no advance because of this extraordinary attraction. Pelham is heralded as the most wonderful hypnotist in the world. The Salt Lake Evening Telegram, in speaking of the doctor has the following to say:

State, city and county officials, prominent local physicians and newspaper men witnessed the work of Dr. E. Pelham, on the stage of the Mission theater after the matinee yesterday afternoon.

For nearly an hour the celebrated hypnotist had the closest attention of the little crowd. Those who thought they were "wise" when they went to the theater have changed their minds. They are wondering what sort of power the hypnotist possesses that enables him to make strong men do as he wishes.

To concentrate his mind with the mind of Edward Heath, one of the young men in the audience, so that the latter gave a most remarkable performance of the dual character of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde was one of the greatest feats performed by Dr. Pelham yesterday afternoon.

Under the influence of the hypnotist, Heath was not himself for the time, but was a real mad man, rolling on the floor, clenching his fists and almost frothing at the mouth. Then, with a few brisk slaps administered by Dr. Pelham the Jekyll and Hyde person was young Mr. Heath again, although much weakened, seemingly, and out of breath from his exertions.

In his demonstrations of catalepsy Dr. Pelham took a boy weighing about 130 pounds under his power and stretched him out on two chairs, with the boy's feet resting on the back of one chair and his head on the back of the other, with his face upward In this Pelham-cataleptic state the boy was able to stand the weight of three heavy men, who stood on the subject's breast, stomach and lower limbs. After the three men had stepped off of the boy, the hypnotist almost danced a jig on his subject's stomach.

When the boy was brought out of the cataleptic condition he seemed dazed and wandered about the stage for a minute, showing the powerful effect of the work.

The next cataleptic demonstration astonished the spectators more than anything else had done and set them guessing again. In this demonstration Dr. Pelham had a young man sit down on a chair, with his left arm thrown over the back of the chair, the wrist resting on the back of another chair. With one word, maybe it was a magic word, the hypnotist made the man's arm as solid as a piece of marble and then he stood on it. Then, by forcing the subject's clenched fist open, he made the hand he held as bloodless and cold as in death. Another word spoken by the hypnotist and the blood could be seen returning to the apparently dead hand.

The doctor is contemplating repeating the experiment in this city before the medical fraternity.

MAGNETIC CATALEPSY

There are many hypnotists who have met with more or less success in public entertainments and private demonstrations, but there is one field in which Dr. Hrbert L. Flint stands alone and in which no one has ever been able to equal him. This one thing in which he stands above all others is in the inducing of magnetic catalepsy. Dr. Flint is of the old school of mesmerists, and all his contemporaries have either died or retired, leaving in their stead hypnotists who have no knowledge or mesmerism, and in whom the powers of magnetism were not born. Hypnotism may be taught, magnetism is a gift of nature and the gift to Dr. Flint in this particular was unusually large. With a few passes upon the bodies of his subjects he is able to stiffen them to the rigidity so great that for entertainment purposes he is able to make a frail boy support upon his back a weight of over half a ton. The climax of this work is the great Flint test, during which a huge rock is broken upon the chest of a hypnotized subject. While Dr. Flint is aware of all the physical and material processes by which he secures these results,, he himself is unaware of the exact nature of the real causes, and the world has yet to discover a scientist who can give a thoroughly satisfactory explanation for such conditions.

TWO ACCUSED OF STEALING CASH

Albert C. Ray and I. B. Griffith were arraigned before Judge Brindley Saturday, charged with stealing $8 from a slot machine owned by E. Gilmeister, who conducts a saloon in the town of Campbell. Both entered pleas of not guilty and their hearings will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Tonight at La Crosse Theater each lady attending Dr. Flint's Entertainment will be presented with a beautiful Silver Souvenir Tea Spoon.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Dissatisfied

The city man worked hard all day
In hope of future joy.
He dreamed about the rustic way
He trod when but a boy.
"Sometime," he said, "I'll take my ease
Among the flowers and the trees,
And leave the glarish lights that blind
The weary townsman far behind."

The countryman exclaimed, "I'll make
A fortune from the farm;
And then my pile of coin I'll take
And learn the city's charm.
I'll have steam heat and fancy fare
And travel swiftly everywhere.
The old shack and the weary grind
Forever I will leave behind.

The artist strives, 'mid dreams of gold,
To clutch the rich man's prize;
The rich man struggles to behold
Life through the artist's eyes.
And so we keep, with strange unrest,
The envious and eternal quest,
Desirous of another's state,
Which he cannot appreciate.

Sweet William

"And where have you been, my pet?"

Thus little Willie's mother to little Willie, on his return home after an unwonted absence of several hours.

"Playin' postman," replied the family hope.

"Playing postman?" repeated Willie's mother. "And how does one play postman, sweet?"

"Why, I just left a letter at each house in the road," explained ehe prodigy—"Real letters, too!"

"Real letters, darling?" inquired mamma, smiling. "But where ever did you get the real letters from?"

"Out of your wardrobe drawer," responded Willie—"those old ones tied up with pink ribbons."—Answers.

A Case of Mistaken Identity

When Jacob Schnitzler of a city in Ohio read in the evening paper that he was dead, and his body was lying at the morgue, he went at onse to the place, and sure enough found himself laid out on a slab as anyone could be who was not living.

The face of the corpse was so much like his own, that Jacob had to rub his eyes, thinking something must be wrong with his vision; but no, the man's clothing was like his own. Jacob could not see the eyes, so he said:

"Vat ish de color of his eyes?"

When they raised up the eyelids he saw they were black. He exclaimed, with a sigh of relief:

"Dot ish better, I know dot ish not mine body. Dose eyes are black, and mine are blue. Mine Himmel; vot a narrow escape I have had; Vot a glose call dot vas."—From Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

Rubbing It In

"What pawt have you—aw—weserved foh me, Miss Coachem?" asked young Sapleigh of the fair manager of the amateur theatricals.

"Why, really, Mr. Sapleigh," she replied. "I am afraid I have overlooked you, and all the parts have been assigned. Oh, by the way, there is still the part of the heroine's father; I think that would about fit you."

"The pawt is weally of little—aw—consequence, doncher know, just so I'm one of the —aw—actahs,' said Sapleigh. "What am I—aw—supposed to do in the pawt?"

"Well," answered the fair manager, "as the heroine is supposed to be an orphan, it will be up to you to remain dead."—Brooklyn Life.

The Initiated Debutante

"That remark," said Senator Depew, as he dissected an opponent's argument at a dinner in Washington—"that remark was malapropos.

"It was in fact, so malapropos that it reminded me of the dainty debutante, fresh as an April dawn, who cried out at her first dinner party:

"'This pudding tastes just like moustache cosmetic.'

"And then, when everybody stared at her, the debutante blushed as red as a peony."—Wasrington Star.

A Law-Abiding Chield

A health officer recently received the following note from one of the residents of his district:

"Dear Sir: I beg to inform you that my child, aged 8 months, is suffering from measles as required by act of Parliament."—Tit-Bits.

Jims' Cost a Dollar More

Richard Le Gallienne, the poet, was entertaining a group of magazine editors at luncheon in New York.

To a compliment upon his fame Mr. Lee Gallienne said lightly:

"But what is poetical fame in this age of prose? Only yesterday a schoolboy came and asked me for my autograph. I assented willingly. And today at breakfast time, the boy again presented himself.

"'Will you give me your autograph, sir?' he said.

"'But,' said I, 'I gave you my autograph yesterday.'

"'I swopped that and a dollar,' he answered, 'for the autograph of Jim Jeffries.'"—New York Tribune.

THE Goose Girl

By HAROLD McGRATH

Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company

The girl turned her head. Seeing Grumbach, she loosened the vintner's hand.

"Do not mind me, girl," said Grumbach, his face broadening.

The girl laughed easily and without confusion. Her companion, however, flushed under his tan, and a scowl ran over his forehead.

The band struck up, and the little comedy was forgotten. But Grumbach could not see anything except the girl's face, the fresh, exquisite turn of her profile. Once his eye wandered rather guiltily. Her figure was in keeping with her face. Then he saw the little wooden shoes. Ah, well, as long as kings surrounded themselves with armies and with pomp, there would always be wooden shoes. The band was playing Les Huguenots, and the girl hummed the air.

"Do not go there tonight, Gretchen," said the vintner.

"It is a crown."

"I will give you two if you will not go," the vintner urged.

"Foolish boy, what good would that do? We need every crown we have or can get, if we are to be married soon. And you have not gone to work yet. And every day costs you a crown to live, and more, for all I know. You spend a crown as carelessly as if all you had to do was to pick them off the vines. Crowns are hard to get."

"When one is happy, one does not stop to bother about crowns," he said impatiently.

"But will such happiness last? Shall we not be happier as our crowns accumulate, to ward off sickness and hunger? Must I teach you economy?"

"I shall apply for work tomorrow and waste no more crowns, my heart." The vintner's hand again sought hers, and he sent Grumbach a look which said: "Smile if you dare!"

But Grumbach did not smile. He was too sad. He fell into a dream, and the music faded in his ear and the lights of the pavilion grew dim. He was a boy again, and he was carrying posies to the pretty little fraulein in the Adlergasse. Dreams never last, and sometimes they are rudely interrupted.

A hand was put upon his shoulder authoritatively. The police officer who had examined his passports that morning stood at Grumbach's elbow.

"Herr Grumbach," he said quietly, "his excellency the chancellor has directed me to bring you at once to the palace."

"To the palace?" Grumbach's face was expressive of great astonishment. The officer saw nothing out of the ordinary in this expression. Any foreigner would have been seized with confusion under like circumstances. "To the palace?" Grumbach repeated. "My passports were wrong in some respect."

"Oh, no, Herr; they were correct."

Grumbach roused his mind energetically. He forced down the fast beating of his heart, banished the astonishment from his face, and even brought a smile to his lips.

"But whatever can the chancellor want of me?"

"That is not my business. I was simply sent to find you. His excellency is always interested in German-Americans. It may be that he wishes to ask what the future is there in America. We have more in Dreiberg than we can reasonably take care of."

"In the prisons?"

The officer laughed. "There and elsewhere."

"Is that right?" asked Grumbach, now thoroughly on guard.

"It may not be right to ship our criminals over there, but it is considered very good politics."

"Shall we go at once? I never expected to enter the palace of the grand duke of Ehrenstein," Grumbach added. "It will be something to tell of when I go back to America."

The only thing that reassured him was the presence of one officer. When they came for a man on a serious charge, in Ehrenstein, they came in pairs or fours. So then, there could be pending nothing vital to his liberty or his incognito. Besides, his papers were all right, and now there would be Carmichael to fall back on.

"The palace is lighted up," was Grumbach's comment as the two passed the sentry outside the gates.

"The duke gives the dinner to the diplomatic corps tonight."

"A fine thing to be a diplomat."

"I myself prefer fighting in the open. Diplomats? Their very precious hides are never anywhere near the wars they bring about. No, no; this way. We go in at the side."

"You'll have to guide me. Yes, these diplomats. Men like you and me do all the work. I was in the Civil War in America."

"That was a great fight," remarked the officer. "I should like to have been there."

"Four years; pretty long. Do you know Herr Carmichael?"

"The American consul? Oh, yes."

"He and I fought in the same regiment."

"Then you saw some pretty battles."

Grumbach took off his hat. 'See that?"

"Gott! That must have been an ugly one."

"Almost crossed over when I got it: Is this the door?"

"Yes. I'll put you in snugly. You will probably have to wait for his excellency. But you'll have me for company till he appears."

Grumbach entered the palace with a brave heart and a steady mind.

The grand duke had a warm pdace in his heart for the diplomatic corps. He liked to see them gathered round his table, their uniforms glittering with orders and decorations. It was always a night of wits; and he sprang a hundred traps for comedy's sake, but these astonishing linguists seldom if ever blundered into one of them. Theyq were eternally vigilant. It was no trifling matter to swing the thought from German into French or Italian or Hungarian; but they were seasoned veterans in the game, all save Carmichael, who spoke only French and German fluently. The duke, however, never tried needlessly to embarrass him. He admired Carmichael's mental agility. Never he thrust so keenly that the American was found lacking in an effective though simple parry.

"Your highness must recollect that I am not familiar with that tongue."

"Pardon me, Herr Captain."

But there was always a twinkle in the ducal eye and an answering smile in the consul's.

The somber black of Carmichael's evening dress stood out conspicuously among the blue and green and red uniforms. Etiquette compelled him to wear silk stockings, but that was the single concession on his part. He wore no orders. An order of the third or fourth class held no allurement. Nothing less than the Golden Fleece would have interested him, and the grand duke himself could not boast of this rare and distinguished orderfi In truth, Carmichael coveted nothing but a medal for valor, and his own country had not yet come to recognize the usefulness of such a distinction.

CONSTIPATION MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are thirty-two feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged, the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produces rheumastism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver complaint can expect to have a clear complexion, or enjoy good health.

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weakening; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope, they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic. Price 25 cents.

HONOR MARQUETTE UNVEIL MONUMENT

Elaborate Services to be Held at Prairie du Chien on June 17th

ANNIVERSARY OF DISCOVERY

Dedication of New $70,000 Building at Academy to Take Place at Same Time

The city of Prairie du Chie and the State of Wisconsin together with citizens from every part of this section of the northwest, will join in services to honor the memory of Rev. James Marquette, S. J., on June 17th, 1910, the 237th anniversary of the day on which this valiant missionary explorer discovered the Missiessippi river at this place. On that day a statue of Father Marquette will be unveiled with elaborate ceremonies under the auspices of the Prairie du Chien Business Men's Association, and of the Sisters of Notre Dame at St. Mary's Academy, in whose grounds the statue will stand. A large and distinguished gathering will attend the ceremonies, to which the governors of the four adjacent states particularly connected with Father Marquette's achievement, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, and Iowa, have been invited. The statue will stand an an eminence overlooking the broad waters of the Mississippi, the mouth of the Wisconsin river where Marquette first saw the Father of Waters, and the prairie rich in historic associations, named Prairie du Chien, from its earliest owner, an Indian chief. The base of the statue is of Bedford stone, ten feet in height, and bears the following inscription:

Wisconsin's Tribute
James Marquette, S. J.
Who With Louis Joliet
Discovered the Mississippi River
Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin
June 17, 1673.

It will be surmounted by a twenty foot Corinthian column of granite, supporting the statue itself. The statue is an exact copy of the one by the famous sculptor Trentanove, placed some years ago by the state of Wisconsin in the Hall of Fame at the national capitol in Washington. It is twelve feet in height, making the total height of the monument forty-two feet.

Many Have Donated

The base of the monument, costing $1,500.00, has been paid for by popular subscription, the largest single contribution being that of President James J. Hill of the Great Northern Railway Company, $200. Bishop Schwebach of La Crosse gave $50, but the majority of the donations have been small and have come from any hundreds of interested persons in this city and elsewhere. The stone column was presented by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company. The statue itself is given by the Order of Notre Dame, the entire cost of the finished monument being $5,000

Life of Marquette

To only a comparatively small number of human beings has it been vouchsafed to taste the experiences compassed in the short life of James Marquette. Born in 1637, of an aristocratic family of the old French nobility, and educated for a career of diplomacy and earthly dignities, he turned at an early age to the service of a higher Master than even Louis XIV of France, the "Grand Monarch," whose proud boast "L-Et-at c'est moi" ("I am the State") is now almost forgotten, while the name of Marquette lives on, perpetually enshrined in the hearts of an admiring people.

Leaving France, saying good-bye to home, family and friends, Marquette came to the French settlements in Quebec, and from there up the great lakes to Michigan and Wisconsin, enduring hardships, privation and toil, daily facing death from disease, the elements and unfriendly red men, to carry the message of Christianity to the Western Indians. Everywhere, however, the "Black Gown," as he was known among the Indians, made friends, and was welcomed for his goodness and wisdom.

Starts Out to Find River

Hearing frequent mention among the Indians of the mighty "Father of Waters" farther west, he determined to find the great river, to ascertain its course and learn whither it led. After long and arduous search, often following wrong trails, wasting one summer exploring the Wolf river, he made his way at last to the portage between the Wisconsin and Fox rivers and thence floated down the "Ouisconsin," as the Indians called it, accompanied by a compatriot, Louis Joliet, and escorted by friendly Indians. Arriving at the mouth of the Wsconsin river the party climbed to the summit of Lookout Mount and surveyed the panorama of hill and plain, woodland and prairie, divided at their feet by the broad Mississippi.

Columbus landing on the island fo SanSalvador, Balboa viewing the Pacific "silent upon a peak in Darien" are the only figures in the history of Americn exploration eclipsing that of this great man standing on this primeval headland gazing in contemplation on one of earth's mightiest rivers rolling in majesty through a valley destined for greater things than can yet be truly prophesied. Behind him lay worldly fortune, high birth, courtly honors, renounced for a life of toil and service, before him an empire which he was first of his race to behold.

Goes Down Mississippi

After leaving this prairie the party proceeded down the Mississippi, landing in Iowa, the first white men ever to step foot on its soil, stopping often to hunt or fish or interview the natives, and finally turning back from near the mouth of the Arkansas river, where they met with hostility from the Indians. The party had traveled 1100 miles on the great Father of Waters and ended their southward course 600 miles south from its mouth. It took Father Marquette nearly a year to make the return trip to his starting point on the Great Lakes, for he stopped frequently to preach the gospel to the red men and was often delayed by illness and failing strength. He reached his friendly northern tribes only a short time before his death, which occurred in 1675, at the early age of thirty-eight years.

Wisconsin has many tributes to Marquette, a city, a county, a university and a railroad named in his honor; his is the only statue placed thus far by Wisconsin in the National Hall of Fame where each state may place two, and now at Prairie du Chien, a spot especially connected with his fame is erected the latest memorial to his greatness.

Double Celebration

By a fortunate coincidence the date of this anniversary, falling in the lovely month of roses, serves at St. Mary's a double purpose, for on June 17th this year, as a part of the festivities of the Academy commencement week, the new $70,000 building erected during the past year will be dedicated. The building, facing east, is Renaissance in style. It is 68 feet by 103 feet on the ground; three stories high over a high, well lighted basement. The structure is of cream colored brick, with Bedford stone trimmings, galvanized iron cornice and metal roof to conform with the row of four other buildings which comprise the school property.

The basement contains play rooms, locker rooms, storage and boiler rooms. The first story contains class ooms, study hall, six music rooms, etc. The second story has study halls, needlework room, art room and china painting room. The third story contains a fine laboratory, three class rooms and the library.

A larger number of St. Mary's alumni than ever before will attend this, the 38th annual commencement. It is a "home coming" commencement, a personal invitation having been sent to each graduate to be present.

Program is Elaborate

The Sisters of Notre Dame will be assisted in every possible way by the Business Men's Association, the city council and the citizen in general to make this event a success. The mayor has requested all business places to close from 1 to 6 p. m. on June 17th. A parade of school children, civic societies, etc., headed by the Sacred Heart College band of thirty-five pieces will form at the court house at two o'clock p. m., and march to the Academy grounds. Here addresses will be made by Hon. Daniel Lawler of St. Paul, from whose father the Academy grounds were originally a gift to the Sisters of Notre Dame, and by Rev. Fr. J. B. Theis, S. J. of Sacred Heart College.

The monument will be unveiled by one of the young lady students at St. Mary's, not yet selected. The program in full is as follows:

on north Third street near the button works. Studier had just left the plant and walking south on Third street, when he was accosted by a man, who had his hat pulled down over his eyes. Paying little attention to him, Studier kept on walking. When within five feet of Studier the assailant pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired three shots in rapid succession. After the first shot Studier fell to the sidewalk and the other shots were fired after he fell. Those in the vicinity of the button works heard the shots fired and hurried to the scene.

Makes His Escape

With his victim lying, groaning on the sidewalk, the assailant made his escape, running over the La Crosse river bridge, thence along the Burlington railroad tracks, leading northeast. Those who saw him declare he flourished his revolver to keep away anyone who might attempt to follow hm. Running beyond the curve he went into the marshes to a point back of Oak Grove cemetery, thence northward and to the north side where he remained in hiding.

News Spreads Rapidly

Immediately after the shooting a telephone message notified the police department and in a few minutes several officers were at the scene of the murder. The victim, however, had already been assisted by those in that vicinity and Dr. J. L. Calahan was called. Blood flowed from the wounds in the breast and abdomen and it was apparent that he was seriously wounded. The injured man was quickly placed in an automobile and conveyed to the La Crosse hospital, where everything possible was done for him, but it was apparent from the start that he had but a few hours to live.

The Search Begins

While the injured man was being cared for at the hospital, the man-hunt began and in less than half an hour officers and citizens were searching through the marshes between the south and the north sides. Chief Webber immediately called out every man on the police force and started them out in all directions. Many private citizens volunteered to assist in the chase and all kinds of offers were received at the police station to assist in running down th emurderer. Thereupon some went out in automobiles and in carriages, watching the roads leading from the city, while the officers were scouring the woods and marshes where it was thought the assailant might have hidden away.

Gets Dying Statement

After all the officers had been put at work Chief Webber hurried to the hospital to get a statement from the dying man, concerning the affair. In view of the fact that no one saw the shooting and there was some doubt as to who fired the fatal shots, the chief made an effort to obtain from the lips of the victim who did the shooting. When the chief reached the hospital Studier was rapidly sinking. The loss of blood made him very weak and the attending physicans said that the victim had but a short time to live. He was conscious, however, and when asked who did the shooting and if he knew the cause for it he simply replied. "Mr. McWillie will know." He also said he did not see the man who shot him until he stepped in front of him, only a few feet away. After making this statement the injured man sank into unconsciousness and the end came at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, two hours and a half after the shooting.

Cause of the Shooting

While the officers were searching for the murderer an investigation was made as to the cause of the murder. It was learned that Saturday morning Superintendent Studier had an argument with Matt Ruesgen and three other button cutters, with reference to their week's work. It is customary to weigh up the buttons cut by the men during the week every Saturday morning and it was charged by the men that the superintendent "gave them the worst of it" by underweighing the buttons. After the weighing, however, Ruesgen left the factory and did not return in the afternoon. He went ao his home, on the North side, got his revolver and waited around the factory until 5 o'clock with the intention of killing Studier when he made his appearance.

Ruesgen is Captured

After nearly seven hours' search Ruesgen was captured in a woodshed at the home of John Paliwoda, 520 Loomis street. It had been learned by the police that Ruesgen and Paliwoda were close friends and the latter was asked if he had seen Ruesgen. He said he had not seen him that evening but promised to notify the police should he see him, declaring that he had no sympathy for anyone who would shoot another man.

Suspicious that Paliwoda knew more than he had told, Detective Frank Yolton and Officers William Horschak, Timothy Mahoney and Frank Groeschner made a search of the premises. Finding the woodshed door locked they demanded that Paliwoda unlock it. At first he hesitated but finally he produced the key and the officers, with revolvers in their hands, went inside. There they found Ruesgen in one corner of the shed. He was unarmed and offered no resistance. He said he had thrown his revolver into the river after the shooting.

Makes a Confession

The prisoner was taken to the central police station, where he talked freely of the crime, admitting that he shot Studier because he had beat him out of a portion of his wages and because he was beating all the rest of the boys. He did not deny that he had planned to kill the superintendent. He said he bought the revolver, which was a 32 calibre Savage gun, two weeks ago from the Fred Kroner Hardware company. He said last week his check should have been for $14 and when he received his pay envelope he found it contained only $11. This enraged him, he said to the police, and he went home to get his revolver, determined to kill Studier.

During his conversation with Chief Webber the prisoner did not appear to be sorry that he had shot Studier, but rather intimated that he thought he was justified in shooting a man who gave him the worst of it in paying for work done. Further details of the trouble were given by Ruesgen after his arrest. He said that Saturday morning after the weighing of the buttons, a strike was threatened, but no general walkout occurred. A few of the men, however, including Ruesgen, picked up their things and left the plant. The others remained at work, preferring to take up the matter with the management.

Other Employes Shocked

When it was learned by the other dissatisfied employes that the superintendent had been shot, they were horrified and expressed regret that the terrible affair had occurred. None of the other men had anything to do with the plan to kill Studier, the idea originating in the mind of Ruesgen, according to his own statement.

Ruesgen a Young Man

Ruesgen is 26 years of age and resides with his parents at 515 St. Andrew street. He was formerly a member of the regular army and has a reputation of being a tough character, the police having had trouble with him before. Chief Webber says that Paliwoda, who is also under arrest, charged with assisting Ruesgen to escape, has also been in trouble before.

Relatives are Notified

After the death of Studier, Chief Webber sent a telegram to brothers of the dead man at Amsterdam, N. Y., informing them of the tragedy. A message was received yesterday morning instructing the police to turn the body over to D. W. McWillie, manager of the button works, until further orders. The body was taken to the morgue of Tillman Bros., where it will remain until the relatives give further instructions.

Decedent was 26 years of age and unmarried. He came here from Amsterdam last September, since which time he has been employed at the button works. He was superintendent for about a week. He has two brothers ,Charles and Fred, and several sisters, who reside at Amsterdam.

Mr. McWillie was out of the city at the time of the murder, having gone to Sparta in an automobile. He returned to the city at 10 o'clock Saturday night. He was shocked to learn of the murder of his superintendent by one of the employes and agreed that the affair was caused over trouble in the weighing of buttons.

CHANGES HER PLEA GETS THIRTY DAYS

Carrie Mathinson Today Says She Is Guilty of Receiving Stolen Property

Carrie Mathinson, the woman who was arrested in company with Frank Jerome, charged with receiving stolen property, this morning changed her plea from not guilty to that of guilty, and was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Judge Brindley. Jerome was sentenced to the Green Bay reformatory Saturday for burglarizing the hardware store of the Fred Kroner Hardware company, at the same time informing the court that he told the woman that he had stolen the goods he gave her.

THE CHAUTAUQUA IS COMING SOON

One of Our Hot Weather Institutions Full of Delightful Prospects

The delightful hot weather is suggestive of many good things. Perhaps first in importance is the corn proposition, for corn and cold weather never did get along well together. Then there are summer clothes, summer girls, summer outings—no end of good things in sight with the advent of warm weather.

But the thing that we started out to say is that the hot weather suggests the Chautauqua. Here is an institution that, like our great staple cereal, thrives on hot weather. It has come to be one of the big events of our summer season. And it takes hot weather to insure its development in full form.

On June 28th the first gun will be fired. Then for seven days in rapid succession, there will be a veratable cannonade of good things. Behind this enterprise there is a great organization of genius and enterprise and wonders have been accomplished.

The Chautaqua is one of our institutions that is framed and constituted for the good of all. It has brain food for the thoughtful, entertainment for the multitude, and mystery for the curious. It has come to be well known that throughout the wide range of its rings there runs the truest strains of moral force.

Music, oratory and entertainment—these are the features that stand out with most general and emphatic invitation to the people. The programs are so arranged that something of all of these appears at every session. There will not be a dull moment from the first to the last.

The Chautauqua is coming. It will be upon us soon. Our people do not wish to miss any of it. We thought we would gently remind you so that you might be making preparations.

SPIRIT PITTMAN AWAY FOR TRIAL

BLUEFIELDS, June 13.—Wm. D. Pittman, the American who mined the territory about Bluefields otor the Estrada government, and was captured by Madriz troops during the fighting May 27, has been spirited away from here and, it is presumed, taken to Managua, where he will be placed on trial with General Matuty, the Estrada commander, captured about the same time.

The Bluefields American, the official Estrada paper, in today's issue announces that the provisional government is drawing up plans asking Washington to authorize the establishment of a new republic to be known as New Nicaragua. The proposed new republic would include about half of the present Nicaraguan territory, with Bluefields as the capital.

SKIFF STOLEN; REWARD OFFERED

River Men Say a Dozen of La Crosse Boats Have Been Stolen within Two Weeks

That river thieves are beginning their activities again after a couple of seasons of obscurity which was brought about through prosecutions by the La Crosse Motorboat club, is indicated by reports from rivermen and owners of boats in this city. It is stated at the local ferries that about a dozen skiffs have been stolen during the last two or three weeks, and thus far none of them have been recovered.

The La Crosse Motorboat club offers a standing reward of $25 in cash for evidence convicting party or parties guilty of molesting the boathouses or craft of members of the organization, and it is expected the influence of the club will be brought into play to bring the thieves to book.

Last night the 18 foot skiff owned by W. V. Kidder was stolen from his camp above the railroad bridge. The boat was made by the Racine Boat company, and contained that name plate on the bow, was dark green on the outside and light green on the inside with varnished woodwork and seats, brass open oarlocks and square stern. A broken board has been patched on the outside with tin near the waterline, on one side. The boat contained, when stolen, a canvas cover, dark brown dip net, fish poles and two oars, one of which had been broken and wrapped with setline. A reward of $5 has been offered and the police are at work on the case.

E. C. Higbee's boat, the Nancy, was broken into and considerable equipment stolen, while a canvas cover was stolen from the launch of A. M. Brayton. Other depredations have been numerous and today officers of the Motorboat club sallied up the chief of police to see if a stop can be put to the thievery.

An additional reward of $25 is offered by the La Crosse Motorboat club for arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves.

TRY TO STOP PAY OF PURCHASER

MADISON, Wis., June 13.—(Special.)—The fight of Madison merchants against the methods followed by Miss Edna Fewson, purchasing agent of the university, was revived today, when papers in an injunction suit were filed in circuit court to restrain her from collecting her salary. She received $1,500 per year. Complaint alleges she was appointed under the provisions of the civil service act which allows exemption from examination in cases where "peculiar exceptional qualifications" were demanded, and that she was never on the lists of the civil service commission.

BISHOP KOUDELKA LA CROSSE GUEST

Cleveland Prelate Takes Part in Confirmation and Opening of Bazaar

Yesterday was a notable day among the Bohemian and Polish Catholics of the city, the occasion being the presence of Bishop Koudelka of Cleveland and Bishop Schwebach of this city, and practically all of the priests of the city.

At the Bohemian church Bishop Koudelka confirmed a class of eighty in the morning and made an address and at the Holy Cross church in the afternoon attended the opening of the week bazaar, the ceremonies being held in the open air. The bishop was highly pleased with his reception. There was a large attendance at both the confirmation and at the Holy Cross bazaar, and at 4 o'clock Rev. Father Robert Condon of St. Mary's church made an open air address, saying in part:

Father Condon's Address

"I have had the hapiness of soying mass at Rome over the tomb of St. Stanislaus Kotzka. Yielding to no man in the love of country, I have felt my American heart thrilled indeed as at Rapperswyl, in Switzerland, I beheld enshrined the heart of the gallant Kosciusko, and thought of the days when, with Washington, he battled for colonial rights and for human liberty against the power of England. And at Vienna I have seen where the great Sobieski came to the relief of Austria and saved Christendom from the yoke of Mohammed."

These three types, the speaker went on to say, St. Stanislaus, Sobieski and Kosciusko, represent three phases of Polish character as reflected in the history of Poland, spiritual fervor, military valor and unconquerable love of liberty; after these artistic genius and intellectuality. Think of Copernicus and all of the poets, painters and musicians of Poland, and you can understand the love of a Pole for his native land.

Poland, however, is greater than the genius of her children in her constancy under oppression as tragic as any in history, her clinging to her religion, her language and her nationality through confiscation, through proscription and through torture that seem still to call to God for vengeance.

In conclusion, Dr. Condon exhorted the Poles to be true to their inspiring traditions and so, just as truly as their great countrymen, Kosciusko and Pulaski, contributed to win liberty for America, just as truly would they contribute to preserve that liberty and to make of America a still greater nation before God and man.

DIRTY PLUG IS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

phia Ledger, under whose auspices Hamilton made the flight, was in waiting with one car white covered as a guide. As Hamilton came in sight the engineer opened his throttle and the special train dashed away on its no-stop run to Philadelphia, with Hamilton 500 feet in the air and going at a terrific rate of speed, directly over it.

Arrives at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 13.—Traveling at a speed greater than that of the fastest express train between the two cities, Charles K. Hamilton, in a Curtiss biplane, completed the first half of his flight from New York to Philadelphia and return at 9:28 today. He covered the distance, approximately 86 miles, in one hour and fifty minutes, about 48 miles an hour.

Hamilton appeared above the aviation field, a quarter of a mile northwest of Front and Erie avenue, at 9:20. He circled the big lot three times, tearing to the earth on the fourth circle at a point several squares distant from where a crowd of 20,000 had expected him to descend.

Aviator is Embarassed

A policeman was the first to greet the daring aviator. When a group of newspaper men swarmed about him, Hamilton's first request was for a cigarette. A moment later the vast throng gathered on the field, surged in about him, striving to grasp his hands and cheering madly. Shouts were made for a speech but Hamilton turned to his aerial craft, plainly embarrassed by the reception.

"It was a beautiful flight," said Hamilton, "the most beautiful I ever had. The weather was great—couldn't have been better."

At this point Governor Stuart, who was an interested spectator, was presented to the aviator. "I want to congratulate you, Mr. Hamilton," the governor said, "on your remarkable flight."

"Thank you, governor," returned Hamilton. "I guess its time I was delivering the goods."

Drawing a packet from an inside pocket, he gave the governor a letter from Gov. Hughes of New York. He also caried greetings to the Public Ledger from the New York Times under whose auspices the flight was made.

After a big cordon of police had been placed about the aeroplane, Hamilton was hurried into an automobile and rushed to the Bellevue-Stratford, where luncheon was served.

Pilot Train Arrives

Two minutes after the descent, the special train, aboard of which were his wife, mother and those who had been passengers on the train which acted as a pathfinder for him, pulled in along the tracks. Hamilton's wife and aged mother waved and shouted to him from the observation platform but he was so hemmed in that it was impossible to see them.

Grain Letter.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Bearish feeling predominated in all grain markets on the Board of Trade at opening today. For the wheat trade the fine weather for the spring crop in the northwest and bright conditions for the early harvest in the southwest constituted the most bearish feature. There was a mild selling flurry at the opening and the prices had a break at once to 92c, for July; 88 7-8c, for September, and 88 5-8c for December. The market appeared to strike bottom at these figures. Although Armour brokers were liberal sellers of September wheat, there was noted good support at the decline.

Enough resting orders on the buying side of the market placed to secure wheat on the dip were executed to give the market a fair rally during the morning.

The fine growing weather in the corn belt, together with the early wheat break, caused some recessions when corn opened, but the loss was soon recovered.

Trade in oats was a local affair. There was considerable pressure on the market at the start because of the weakness in wheat and corn and prices sold off about ½ from the close of last week. On the decline a good many shorts covered and took profits.

Provisions broke sharply in the early trading. There was a good local demand in evidence at bottom prices and the market had a slight reaction.

Close—Wheat did not rally all through the day and at the close July was ⅝ lower, September ⅞ lower and December ⅛ higher. Corn closed weak, July ½ lower. Oats followed other grains and closed weak from ⅝ to ¼c lower. Provisions closed weak.

OUTCASTS LOSE TO THE INDIANS

Malloy Leads His Team Off Field After Winning the Game by a Score of 4 to 0

WEIDELL'S HURLING WINS

Visiting Twirler Allows but Four Widely Scattered Hits; Wais Gets Two of Them

J. Mique Malloy, last year star sun gardener with the local baseball aggregation and erstwhile manager of the destinies of the Red Wing team, led his Indian braves off the league park field yesterday afternoon, after appropriately celebrating his return to this city with a victory of the calcimine order, by the score of 4 to 0. Everybody was glad to see Mique again and when he started the batting for his team, he was presented with two large bouquets of flowers from admiring friends in the stands. Amid calls of speech, Mique calmly tipped his cap to the spectators and drew a free walk to first base.

It was a great game, one of the best seen on the local grounds this year and the grand stand was filled to overflowing. The crowd was one of the largest of the season. Weidell's pitching was mainly responsible for the victory. The visiting twirler allowed four hits, one of which was scratchy and the other three coming far apart. The best the locals could do with the bingles was to get one in an inning and they proved unproductive of runs. The Indian heaver handled the whitewash brush in great shape and wound up the ninth by striking out three batters. Watson heaved a good game but bunched hits and bases on balls and a hit batter resulted in runs for the Manufacturers.

How the Runs Came

The Indians scored first in the sixth round of the battle. Mique got his second hit of the game, a bingle in right field. Klein stumbled in the sand, allowing Malloy to get to second. Kelley was hit by Watson and Black lined out a triple to the center field fence which scored the two baserunners.

In the next inning, Gritz was walked to first, sacrificed to second by Foutsch and scored when Greggory hit to center field.

In the ninth inning the Manufacturers came across with one more count. Black got a base on balls and stole to the midway bag. Demmer hit to left. Kuehn and Doll letting the ball drop between them. Gritz followed with the needed wallop in right field, scoring Black.

The nearest that the Outcasts could get to a score was third base. In the fourth inning Wais hit to left, stole second and went to third when Weidell tried to catch him at second the ball going beyond the bag. With none out and Billy on third a score looked certain. Doll grounded out to Weidell. Kuehn flied out to short and Watson duplicated to Malloy. The score:

SENATORS SHUT OUT WHITE SOX

Washington Braces in the Ninth Inning, Securing Two Runs; Tigers Win Again

Washington 2, Chicago 0

CHICAGO, June 13.—The Senators shut out the White Sox again, 2 to 0, in a hard fought game in which tallies were absent until the ninth session was reached. In this inning the Senators scored their brace. Washington was on the job with the stick, securing eleven hits off Young. Score:

Detroit 8; New York 3

DETROIT, June 13.—The New York Americans played Detroit a tight game for five innings, but in the sixth the Tigers began a bombardment of Warhop under which the Highlanders' defense went to pieces. Three two-baggers, a single and a two-base error by Wolter and a hit by pitcher were the features of the period. Score:

BREWERS LOST FIRST GAME WITH TOLEDO

TOLEDO, O., June 13.—The Milwaukee team lost a stubbornly fought contest in the eleventh inning by the score of 5 to 4. A costly error by Breen, formerly with the Duluth White Sox, was responsible for the scoring. The error was mostly excusable, as it was a fast one and hit his shoe. Up to this period of the game he had played a phenomenal game. The score:

RUBBER MILLS WIN FROM BLUE LABELS

In a close game Sunday afternoon, the Rubber Mills annexed another victory by defeating the Blue Labels 8 to 6. The Rubber Mills started with a rush, running in three scores in the first inning, hitting Fiebig at will. Larson, for the Rubber Mills, pitched a pretty game, striking out 14 men. The feature of the game was the hitting of Anderson, who got two two-base hits and one triple. This makes 12 games won and two lost for the winers.

WINONA WALLOPS LA CROSSE "HIGH"

Win Poorly Played Contest by Bunching Hits, with the Bases Filled Up

Bunching hits after La Crosse errors had put men on the bases, the Winona high school team beat the local highs in a poorly played game by the score of 15 to 6. This was the first time that the Minnesota nine had been able to down the locals in a long time, the games in the past few seasons resulting in victories for La Crosse.

For five innings it was an exciting contest with the locals ahead by dint of a big rally in the third round which netted them four runs, while Winona had only one. In the sixth, however, the upriver boys decided the contest beyond a doubt by scoring seven runs, on three hits, and as many errors and a base on balls. Again in the eighth the Minnesota boys added seven more to their total, bunching four hits, three bases on balls and three errors.

Ray pitched eight innings for the locals, and although hit rather hard at times, did well until errors began to fill up the bases and put him in trying situations. In the third inning he gave a splendid exhibition, when after Pratt had made a single, and two bases on balls filled up the bags with but one down, Ray retired the side runless, when he forced Barr to hit an easy grounder and then struck out Saubstad. In addition to pitching well, Ray also started the rally in the third round which netted four runs.

The following members of the local team will receive monograms for their baseball playing: Ray, Spellum, Stavrum, Bradish, Egstad and Ryan. In order to win the letter, it is necessary to play in three whole or parts of five games.

Winona scored once in the second inning, when with one out, Libera singled and got around to third from where he scored when Parr's chance was missed. They did not score again until the sixth, when eleven men came to bat. Libera started it by getting a life when his easy grounder was fumbled, and moved to second on Laterah's single. On another error on Parr's grounder, he got to third, but was caught at the plate when Stubstad hit an easy grounder. The bases were still full, however, and Laterah scored when Ryan missed Herrington's grounder. Chapman then singled driving in Herrington. Kolar struck out, but Busdicker singled and Chapman scored. Pratt got a base on balls, both men moving up and tallied when Libera's easy chance was missed.

Chapman started the fatal eighth by singling and got to second when Kolar got a base on balls. Busdicker was an easy out and Pratt struck out but Libera singled scoring the pitcher. Laterah got another base on balls, and Parr scored both with a two bagger. He moved to third when an error was made on Stubstad, and scored when Chapman's grounder was missed. Kolar singled clearing the bases. Pratt was put after Busdicker singled. This ended the scoring for the Minnesota boys, Hundredmark, who pitched the ninth, striking out Libera, Laterah and Parr in succession.

La Crosse had few chances to score but the third inning saw them in a big rally. Ray started it by singling, and Egstad's grounder was missed. Stavrum's grounder was also missed and Ray scored. Bradish and Ryan were both thrown out when Goldberg was safe and stole second, scoring when Kelley singled.

Again in the ninah the locals scored twice, Kelley getting on when he beat a grounder to third, and scoring when Spellum singled through shortstop. Ray got a base on balls, and Spellum scored when Egstad singled. This was all as Stavrum and Bradish went out on grounders.
